Automation Unplugged:

Pinto's Perspectives, Pointers & Prognostications

By Jim Pinto

ISA–The Instrumentation, Systems, and Automation Society

Table of Contents

About the Author vii
Preface ix
Introduction xiii

Section 1 Major Automation Companies—
The Good, The Bad and The Ugly 2
Introduction: John Berra 3
The Urge to Merge. 9
Siemens—American manager's view. 15
Emerson—strong management drives performance 21
Honeywell Industrial Systems—The GE-Honeywell fiasco 25
Aggressive French giant—Schneider Electric. 29
Invensys in decline 33
Whither Rockwell Automation 39
The ABB Blahs 43
Yokogawa exemplifies Japanese automation companies 47
Companies in Trouble 51
The second tier—tomorrow's leaders 55

Section 2 Marketing, Sales and Distribution Perspectives 60
Introduction: Frank Williams 61
The Changing Face of Automation. 67
Old dead-ends, new directions. 71
Products vs Services 73
Product Development Speed in the Internet Age 77
Marketing Speed in the Internet Age 81
Why is Industrial Automation Declining? 85
Industrial Automation eBiz 89
Disintermediation—Distribution and Sales Channels 91
Disintermediation—The Customer Perspective 95
Disintermediation—The Manufacturers Perspective 99
Competing in a Global Environment 103
Relationship management 107
Never, Never be the Lowest Bidder 109

Section 3 The Future of Automation Technology—Gee Whiz! . . 112
Introduction: Bud Keyes 113
Instrumentation & Control on the Frontiers of a
New Millennium 117
New technology, new approaches are needed 125
The Technology Laws 129
Distributed & Grid Computing. 133
The Pervasive Internet 137
Intelligent Connected Appliances 141

Wireless sensor networks 145
Networked, Intelligent I/O—
The Truly Distributed Control Revolution 147
Fully automated factories 155
Nanotech & self-organizing systems. 157
Intelligent robots will be everywhere 161
Stephen Wolfram's "New Science" 165

Section 4 Industrial Networks—This Bus is for You 168
Introduction : Dick Caro. 169
Fieldbus—A Neutral Instrumentation Vendor's Perspective . . . 173
How do I catch the Fieldbus? 179
The Law of Open Systems Confusion 183
The Dichotomy of Open Standards 187

Section 5 Pinto's Industrial Poetry 190
Introduction: Greg Hale 191
Where have all the Players gone? 193
The Fieldbus Raven 195
Open Saysa Me, Closed Saysa You 196
The Fieldbus Quadrille 197
Microsoft Takes Over Fieldbus 198
The 8-part Fieldbus Voting Fiasco. 199
Net Du Jour 200
You are Rich Brother William 201
Saint Bill 202

Afterword 205