Exhibitor and Sponsorship Prospectus

Position Your Company as a Preferred Supplier and Build Key Relationships with Buyers

As an exhibitor or high profile Sponsor at the 6th Annual Water and Wastewater and Automation Controls Symposium (WWAC), you'll have the rare opportunity to contact and build important relationships with influential working professionals within this industry. Networking with utilities personnel who are in a position to specify equipment or who recommend equipment for purchase can lead to a significant increase in your company's bottom line.

WWAC is an important technical conference which will cover all facets of automatic controls and how they affect water treatment, processing, and distribution. If your products and services are utilized in water and wastewater processing, water collection, water treatment, controls, and instrumentation, WWAC is your company's inside channel for communicating much-needed product and solutions information to principal end users at city, county, and municipal public utilities.

Attendees from many areas of the processing plant, including C-level executives, project managers, technicians, controls engineers, managers, and design engineers, convene annually to network, enhance their education, and talk to suppliers who made a choice to be at WWAC to work with them. Your exhibit space includes one (1) full conference registration with scheduled lunches, so you can attend the conference sessions with your prospects and customers, then bring them to your display to show them how your company provides the right solution to meet their processing challenges.

Exhibitors will display their products and solutions while sponsors of WWAC will have a display and top visibility with attendees before, during, and after the symposium. Confirm your standing as a leading supplier with these key industry leaders—contact us now to reserve your exhibit space or to inquire about the various sponsorship levels.
